

ABSTRACT

A box for a set of electric storage batteries includes at least two side walls extending generally parallel and defining between them a housing for receiving batteries. The side walls consist of an assembly of stacked modules each comprising a pair of wall elements mounted opposite each other.

T06T60" T09E600